ANNEXATION WITH LOS ANGELES IS AGAIN URGED

Meeting Names Committee to Secure Information In Regard to Question

A meeting to further the cause of annexing Glendale to or consolidating with Los Angeles was held yesterday afternoon by a group of Glendale citizens in the rear of the storeroom partly occupied by the Empire Dye Works, 108 South Brand boulevard.

Although the meeting had not been publicly advertised, a crowd estimated at more than thirty was in attendance.

John W. Usilton, who was elected temporary president of the association, presided. Other temporary officers elected were John Emerson, secretary, and John Logan, treasurer.

The executive board named includes Hal Davenport, M. Moore, W. E. Evans and W. W. McElroy.

Plan Conference

In addition to the above, a committee of nine was named by the assemblage to confer at some future date with the City Council of Los Angeles regarding the annexation question.

They include John W. Cole, C. H. Thompson, John W. Lawson, J. R. Gray, J. A. Potter, O. A. Lane, Dr. E. H. Parker, Philip W. Parker and Sam P. Stoddard.

A resolution adopted earlier in the meeting calling for a special conference next Wednesday, at which time petitions would be drawn up and circularized for signatures of those favoring annexation, was subsequently voted down.

Instead, it was the unanimous sense of the meeting that it would be best to pass upon the advances of the Los Angeles City Council relative to annexation before producing petitions.

To Seek Concessions

Further, it was agreed that when the committee of nine visits Los Angeles it will bargain for all that it can obtain from the City Council as regards annexation concessions.

The latter data, it was voted, shall of necessity be in writing. Subsequently, this and other information to be solicited from sewerage experts and others would finally be submitted to the proponents of annexation.

Knights Templar to Hold Special Meet

A special meeting of Knights Templar will be held Friday night, when dinner will be served at 6:30, according to Commander George U. Moyse.

Last night the Order of Red Cross followed by the Order of Malta was conferred upon nine candidates, which is the largest class to receive them at one time in the history of the local commandery. In order that three candidates may become knights before the close of the commandery year, the Order of the Temple will be conferred at the special meeting Friday night.

Final arrangements will be made also for Glendale's participation at Hollywood Saturday in the annual Knights' Templar field day. Commanderies from numerous communities of southern California will march in a parade through the Movie City. Lunch will be served in Griffith park by the Hollywood commandery. The afternoon will be devoted to competition between drill teams.

Visiting knights, who have not transferred their allegiance to the local commandery, have been invited to join the local knights at the Glendale Masonic Temple at 10 o'clock Saturday morning and go with them to the Hollywood Masonic Temple where the parade will form.

New Officers Chosen for Eastern Star

Eastern Star members participated in their annual election of officers at the regular meeting last night. The election results were: Mildred Lyon, worthy matron; Harry L. Redd, worthy patron; Jennie Phillips, associate matron; Annetta Both, secretary; Alice Carvel, treasurer; May Warrick, conductress; Sadie McPherson, associate conductress.

Appointive officers are to be announced shortly and the installation will be held December 15. Mrs. Bonnie M. Park, retiring matron, will serve as installing officer.

West Glendale Folks Will Meet Tonight

A meeting of the West Glendale Improvement Association is announced for tonight at 8 o'clock at the Columbus school, Doran and Columbus avenues.

Reading and adoption of the association's constitution and bylaws are stated to be the principal business of the evening. Members are requested to attend and all others are welcome, it is announced.

Annexation Is Full of Danger For This City

The editor of The Glendale News can truthfully say he is a Missourian, and, therefore, must be shown when it comes to the question of Glendale annexing to Los Angeles.

The city of Glendale is made up of a class of citizens possessing more than the average intelligence, and why it should come to the mind of anyone that they are not mentally and financially able to take care of their own municipal problems is something that will provoke active thought.

Just bear in mind, fellow citizens who have been inoculated with the "annexation" bug, that when Glendale reaches the stage that she can not handle her own municipal problems, God pity her, when she has to put herself in the hands of Los Angeles!

The proposition of annexation may seem all right in theory, but in practice it will be found that no set of councilmen residing in Los Angeles will have the live interest in Glendale as will her own citizens.

With all due regard for the advocates of annexation, The Glendale Evening News asks that the question be considered cautiously—for, Glendale once annexed to Los Angeles, there will be no chance to reconsider.

VISITOR IN CITY FROM FAR NORTH

Dr. Ella Wight Is Guest of Mrs. C. A. Bowlus of 331 North Adams

Interesting accounts of Alaska as it is today after recent years of development, are given by Dr. Ella Wight, practicing physician of Anchorage, Alaska, who is now a guest of Mrs. C. A. Bowlus of 331 North Adams street en route to her northern home after four months of clinical study and visits of relatives in the east.

The popular idea that Alaska is isolated on the top of the world is entirely dispelled by Dr. Wight, who states that her home city, Anchorage, has a population of 8,000 people, cement sidewalks, modern streets, steam heated apartments, schools, hospitals, churches, a Chamber of Commerce and other civic organizations.

Beautiful Country.

Anchorage is the last port of call before Nome and according to Dr. Wight it is a ten day trip from Seattle, Wash., to Anchorage. In miles it is a trip of 2,500 miles.

"Alaska is a beautiful country and wonderfully rich," says Dr. Wight. It is useless to tell of the quantities of fine game we have. We also grow exceptionally fine vegetables and the various kinds of wild berries are almost unbelievable.

"The canneries, fisheries, and gold and coal mines are our great industries and with winter coming on it's pleasant to think that we can get all the coal we want for four dollars a ton.

"The government railroad from Seward to Fairbanks is a wonderful piece of engineering work and the scenery on the trip is be-

The young couple were unattended and immediately after the ceremony at the minister's home they left for a short trip. Mr. and Mrs. Mittendorf plan to live in Hollywood. Mr. Mittendorf is engaged in business in Los Angeles.

AWARDED $17,500 FOR HURTS FROM ELECTRIC WIRE

Francis Hilton, 14, Secures Judgment From Edison Company In Court

A judgment for damages to the amount of $17,500 was given yesterday by Judge Charles Monroe in the Los Angeles Superior court, in favor of E. A. Hilton and his 14-year-old son Francis Hilton of 605 West Lexington drive, against the Southern California Edison company, for injuries the Hilton boy received last January when he took hold of a high voltage wire while playing in the Los Angeles river bed.

According to evidence presented at the trial, Francis Hilton and a group of boy friends were playing in the Los Angeles river bed January 7 of this year. Nearby there was a wire swinging loose. One of the boys took hold of the wire but was uninjured because his feet were dry, but Francis Hilton had waded in the river and when he took hold of the wire his feet were wet and the 2,200 volts of electricity passed through his body burning three fingers off his left hand and injuring his thumb so that he can never use it.

Loose Nineteen Days.

During the trial electric workers were called to the stand and in their testimony stated that they would not have touched the wire for $1000. Their testimony further brought out that the wire had been swinging loose for nineteen days before the Hilton boy was burned.

It is claimed that the Edison company will appeal the case to a higher court and if so it is probable that Mr. Hilton's attorney will fight the case on the plea of criminal neglect.

Earl Rumsey Talks to Scout Leaders

"Lack of belief in God brought more juvenile delinquency in the last year than any other known cause," emphatically declared Earl W. Rumsey, assistant probation officer of Los Angeles county in an interesting talk to the Boy Scout leaders last night at the Eagle Rock Central school. Continuing his talk on juvenile delinquency, Mr. Rumsey said, in part:

"The boy of 12 today knows 100 per cent more than you and I did at the age of 16. Boys' work is one of the greatest works in the world, but in order to be successful in it the social worker must give himself unstintedly and must make great sacrifices.

"The Boy Scout organization is the most wonderful institution I have ever come in contact with for developing character and good citizenship. Every boy who has had Boy Scout training will know more about citizenship and how to vote than any of us."

According to Mr. Rumsey, the Juvenile court handled 51,474 cases in Los Angeles county alone during the past year. Vagrancy among children is the fastest-growing and greatest problem the probation officers have to deal with. It is the greatest menace the country has today, he said.

The meeting of the Scout leaders was well attended and considerable business was transacted. E. B. Thomas, principal of the John Muir school at Burbank, was chosen to be the song leader and for a few minutes the men joined in a jaw exercising contest that would be hard to beat. The next meeting of the Troop Leaders' Roundtable will be held at Burbank December 18. Rex C. Kelley, secretary of the Glendale District Y. M. C. A., will talk on Scouting, Religion and the Y. M. C. A. work. Leonard F. Collins, superintendent of schools at Burbank, will demonstrate to the leaders how to tell a story.

INA WHITAKER IS BRIDE; CEREMONY HELD IN LONDON

Former Resident of Glendale Is Wedded In England to William P. Penn

The marriage in London, England, Thursday, October 26, 1922 of Miss Ina Whitaker, until recently a resident of Glendale, to William P. Penn of Tunbridge Wells, England, will be of wide interest to the many friends they made in Glendale during their residence here.

Mrs. Penn and her mother, Mrs. J. L. Whitaker, formerly resided at 112 West Elk street, and left some months ago for England. Shortly before their departure Mrs. Whitaker announced the engagement of her daughter to Mr. Penn and their wedding has been anticipated by their friends.

Where Parents Wedded.

An interesting feature of the wedding was the fact that it took place in St. Mark's church, Hamilton Terrace, London, the same church where the bride's father and mother were married and where she and her brother were christened. Another interesting fact is that Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Whitaker were pioneers of the Glendale Episcopal parish and at their suggestion the local church was named for the Hamilton Terrace church.

The following account of the Penn-Whitaker wedding has been received by The Glendale Evening News:

"The marriage took place at St. Mark's church, Hamilton Terrace, London, Thursday, October 26, 1922, at 1:30 o'clock. The bride wore a traveling costume of brown velour, trimmed with fur and touches of gold embroidery, a brown velvet hat with shaded yellow sprey feather, and a pale yellow crepe de chine blouse fastened with a handsome brooch of topaz and pearls, the gift of the groom. Her bouquet was a sheaf of golden Melody roses combined with lilies of the valley and tied with yellow ribbon to which a luck horseshoe of white heather was attached.

Informal Reception.

"She was attended by Miss Victoria Eyre, a niece of Mrs. Reginald Whitaker, and was given away by Dr. Van Vestraut, a very old friend of both families, and a former resident of Glendale. In the immediate wedding party were Mrs. J. L. Whitaker, mother of the bride; Misses Minnie and Emmie Penn, sisters of the bridegroom; and Mrs. George Hartman, a cousin of the bride.

"After the ceremony an informal reception was held at the temporary London home of the bride's mother and the happy couple departed on their honeymoon to the Isle of Wight. On their return they expect to make their home in or near Tunbridge Wells. Mrs. Whitaker will reside with them."

Mrs. R. W. Browne at Home From East

Mrs. R. W. Browne of 215 North Brand boulevard arrived home recently from a six months' trip east. She visited at the home of her brother, F. B. Reynolds at Elmira, N. Y., her old home. It was her first visit to Elmira since she came to California in 1905.

On her way home she stopped for visits in Chicago, Ill., and Omaha, Neb., and en route west she had the experience of being on a train stalled for fifteen hours in the big snow storm in Wyoming.

Pacific Electric Is Starting Work on New Freight Depot

Breaking of ground for the new Pacific Electric freight station and switchyard on the 300 block on North Maryland avenue was started yesterday.

The freight station will occupy the site now housing the general blacksmith shop of A. H. Fuelscher at 315 North Maryland. The switchyard, to permit of cars being spotted at the station platform, will be laid out in the vacant lot adjoining.

Activity at present is being confined to the work of excavating the latter premises. This was started yesterday by a steam shovel and crew employed by the Continental Construction company, sub-contractors for the Pacific Electric company.

It was stated in traffic circles today that the North Maryland jobs will be under construction for some months.

It is understood also that tenants in the Pacific Electric's depot building at Brand and Broadway have been requested to vacate the premises within the next two months so that work of razing the structure for the new bank building and railroad depot can be gotten under way.

Both the Southern Pacific and the Pacific Electric companies will share depot accommodations in the new bank structure.

Miss Roberta Winans Here for Institute

Miss Roberta Winans of New York City, recently assigned by the National Organization for Community Service as recreational instructor for the institute to be conducted in Glendale, arrived in the city yesterday and is making plans for the three or four-week institute.

Preliminary to the opening of the institute there is to be a big community party next Monday night, the place to be announced later.

Miss Winans comes to Glendale highly recommended. She is a graduate of the Savage School of Physical Education of New York City, and, in addition to having served for four years as instructor and special athletic coach at Savage, she has had twelve years' experience in recreational and community organization work.

For four years she was head of war camp community service, having in charge all activities for women and girls and army and navy men at Perth Amboy, N. J. She also organized the social, athletic and playground work in cities and towns in New England.

Glendale Loyalty Club Big Need In City; It Would Help Everybody, Entire Community

In this age of many organizations, why would it not be a good plan to have a "Loyalty Club" in every city?

Glendale is well provided with clubs and yet there is room for this very important organization in our prosperous city.

Such an organization should have a junior department whose members early in life would receive proper instruction in the benefits derived by supporting home industries.

As the youth of Glendale are taught to be loyal to the nation and the state, so should they be taught to be loyal to the city in which they are receiving their education and their social advantages.

Buying in Glendale should not be advocated for the benefit of the individual merchants, but for the broader reason that buying in Glendale benefits the whole city.

Everybody buying in Glendale makes everybody busy—and, therefore, everybody prospers, the merchant, the banker, the real estate dealer, and the professional man. That means better schools, better churches, better club houses, and better everything for Glendale.

Let us have a "Glendale Loyalty Club."

MALCOLM M'LAREN NOTED DETECTIVE, PASSES AWAY

Resident of Glendale for Nine Years; Prominent In M'Namara Case

Malcolm McLaren, one of the most noted detectives in the United States, died this morning, Tuesday, November 14, 1922, at his home, 303 North Jackson street, after an illness of some duration.

The McNamara case was solved by Mr. McLaren who obtained sufficient evidence upon J. B. McNamara and his brother to send them to the penitentiary for dynamiting the plant of the Los Angeles Times.

Until his retirement from very active life about a year ago, Mr. McLaren was employed by the district attorney's office. He was also the head of the organization known as the Malcolm McLaren Detective Agency, which has its office in the Tajo building, First and Broadway, Los Angeles.

Born in Canada

Mr. McLaren was born in Ottawa, Can., where his mother had gone from Chicago on a visit, July 10, 1865. He was 57 years of age. After attending school in Chicago until he was ten years of age, Malcolm was taken to Des Moines, Iowa, where his father acted as superintendent of construction for the Iowa state capitol.

As a young man, Mr. McLaren served a three years' apprenticeship as a stone cutter and worked at this trade for several years. In 1885 he was appointed an instructor in this art in the Iowa state prison at Anamosa, Iowa. Later he returned to Chicago and resumed his trade until 1899 when he gave it up permanently on account of his health.

Gold Is Missing

Before Malcolm's birth, his father had gone from Scotland to Australia where by industrious labor over a period of ten years he had accumulated a modest fortune of $11,000. This he placed in a small chest and boarded a ship for the United States. Upon arrival at New York harbor, the chest was still there but the gold was gone. His father was obliged to start life over again.

This incident probably led his son to turn his thoughts to de-

Small Cards Block Mail at Christmas

A campaign to discourage the use of small-sized Christmas cards has been started by the postoffice department at Washington, according to a communication received in Glendale by Captain D. Ripley Jackson, postmaster.

Small-sized cards and envelopes are responsible for great delay during the Christmas rush, Captain Jackson says, and for that reason he wishes to impress upon Glendalians the necessity of using standard sized postage material.

"They are awfully cute," he confided, holding an envelope the size of a business card for illustration, "but any of the boys out in the sorting room will tell you they are not practical."

One of the principal faults found with the miniature mail is that they will not run through the cancellation machine.

A clerk able to handle 20,000 letters of uniform shape and size each day may have his distributing speed reduced to fully one-third that number by handling irregular dimensions in letters and cards, Captain Jackson stated.

Elks Lodge Plans Great Charity Ball

Elks' lodge No. 1289, the local lodge, held a regular business meeting last night at the clubhouse at 120 East Colorado. The purpose of the meeting, according to W. M. Kimball, secretary, was to make preparations for the charity ball coming Saturday, November 25. This ball, it was stated, will be the only Elks' open dance of the season. The proceeds will go toward making Christmas a happier time for the afflicted and poor.

The business meeting last night was followed by a pleasing musical program, Mr. Kimball states. Edwin J. Albright, vocalist of the local lodge, and Lewis A. Kerwin, pianist of lodge 99, combined to produce some very high grade harmony, after which Mr. Kerwin rendered some piano solos that showed the real artist he is. The evening is said by members to have been a particularly enjoyable one.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Babe Ruth, somewhat discredited home run hitter of the New York Yanks, paid his farewell respects to Broadway last night with the prediction that he would follow his conspicuous nose through a straight and narrow existence.

"Boys," quoth the Babe, addressing a gathering of newspapermen, "I'll make this bet with anyone present. Between now and next October 4 there will be nothing in my conduct that I would not be glad to have anyone know about."

The great man was in a chastened, penitent mood as he addressed his guests, called to the festive board in an effort to reach a mutual understanding. He freely admitted to the reporters, some of whom were frankly at variance with the home run hitter, that he had made mistakes during the past season for which he hoped to atone. His first step in this direction, he said, would be a life of ease and confinement on his farm at Sudbury, Mass., during the winter months.

"I'm going up there to work," he declared, "and I'm coming back in first-class physical condition. When the season starts, I will be in there swinging from my heels. If I hit them, well, and good. If I don't, it will be simply a case of knowing that it is not in me."

Ruth made a favorable impression upon his auditors. His sincerity of thought and purpose was obvious.

Knowing something of human frailty in men and the Ruth type in particular, we are inclined to doubt his strength of purpose while admiring and respecting his sincerity.

MOTOR COMPANY DEFEATED

U. S. AFTER TAX ON BOOZE GRAFT

Rich Bootleggers Are Being Rounded Up and Fined for False Returns

By W. H. ATKINS
For International News Service.

WASHINGTON. — Tax-evading bootleggers, who have amassed wealth selling illicit booze, are being rounded up in one of the most persistent drives ever begun by the International Revenue Bureau. The government is shy many millions of dollars in revenue because bootleggers have failed to make returns showing their income.

A new system devised by the bureau has put the government on the tracks of tax dodgers of this class. The "Big Fours" and other similarly designated cliques that have a monopoly on the booze supply and distribution in the larger cities, are being caught rapidly through information supplied by prohibition agents.

In one large city discovery was made that the chief of police, city councilmen and other dignitaries were active members of the bootleg combination. Examination of their bank accounts disclosed fabulous sums accumulated suddenly from liquor profits. Investigation shows that in practically every case these taxpayers failed to account for their income from liquor sources.

Records seized by prohibition agents all over the country have led to sensational disclosures involving high officials. They are actively participating in the profits on big deals. In many cities, prohibition officials declared, local officials count upon a certain stipulated rake off on all liquor transactions.

One of the so-called kings of bootleggers, who made a phenomenal rise as a financier, has been discovered with a possible indebtedness to the government so large that almost his entire fortune may be wiped out if the government collects all of the penalties and taxes assessed against him. In this case his liability has been multiplied many times through the past two years by failure to report his true income, for falsifying his tax statement, and withholding taxes on liquor made and sold.

In its pursuit of the tax evaders in bootleg ranks the Internal Revenue bureau is slapping on the maximum penalties. These are very severe.

L. A. HART SELLS REALTY BUSINESS

Frederick Page, Recently of Oregon, and D. S. Stone of L. A. Form Firm

L. A. Hart, realtor, of 113 East Broadway, and member of the Garnsey & Hart insurance firm, has announced that he has sold his realty business to Frederick Page, recently of Medford, Ore., and D. S. Stone, recently from Los Angeles. This deal in no way concerns the Garnsey & Hart insurance business and Mr. Hart will still maintain his office at 113 East Broadway and, in addition to his insurance activities, he will be associated with the Page-Stone company, as the realty business will be known.

Mr. Page was engaged in the realty business in Oregon for sixteen years and Mr. Stone has also had experience in selling realty, so that they are exceptionally well qualified to assume the ownership of Mr. Hart's splendid business.

The success Mr. Hart has attained has resulted in such a growth of business that the enlargement of the business and broadening of the field of activities have been absolutely necessary and, according to Mr. Hart, these things are to be accomplished by his sale to the Page-Stone company. This will enable Mr. Hart to devote more time to his insurance business with Mr. Garnsey and also give him the opportunity to be associated with the activities of the Page-Stone company.

Death Penalty Is Demanded for Clara

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 14.—Demanding the death penalty for Clara Phillips, on trial for the "hammer murder" of Mrs. Alberta Meadows, Deputy District Attorney Fricke began tne last of the final arguments to the jury in the case today.

Fricke began talking to the jury immediately after Defense Attorney Herrington completed his closing address with an oratorical appeal for acquittal for Mrs. Phillips.

Facing the jurors after Herrington had returned to his chair at the attorney's table, Fricke opened his address with the statement that the prosecution asked for the extreme penalty of the law for Mrs. Phillips.

She told the police Bryant tried to attack her in the absence of her husband, Joseph Stewart. She said Bryant was her husband's friend.

SPORTS CHATTER

It has always been a question in football whether or not a team of individual stars is as good as a well balanced eleven of sterling, first class men, not included in the "star" class.

In the case of the star, there seems almost always to be a tendency to attempt individual work with a minimum of attention being paid to team work. The star is apt to try to take too much on himself. In the case of the quarterback, or rather, the man who gives the signals, this is a feature that can be very much overdone. A concrete case is in point.

In the game that the Olympic club of San Francisco played against the Stanford University eleven, Bradshaw, a former star of the Nevada University eleven was quarter and gave the signals. Now Bradshaw is one of the best football players on the coast, and was rated all-Pacific player in his position.

In the Stanford game he continually was calling signals which gave him the ball to run with. There is no doubt of his ability as a runner, and once in a broken field he is a mighty hard man to down. But Stanford knew all this so they kept an eye to Bradshaw and every time he attempted anything he was smothered.

The coach of the club team then took Bradshaw out and put in a substitute to run the team. Things picked up immediately. While Bradshaw was being thrown back in his attempts to make long runs, the new quarter gave the signal for a good pair of strong backs to carry the ball, and they made their three to five yards on each try with the consequence that the clubmen scored and then repeated several times and eventually beat the collegians by a lopsided score.

It was a wise move on the part of the coach for the chances are ten to one that had Bradshaw continued on the plan that he was putting into practice, the chances of scoring would have been very much diminished.

Unquestionably a man who is able to kick, pass and run well is a tremendous asset to his team, but it usually takes a lot of drilling to convince those men that they are more useful, in the long run, as a cog in the machine than as an integral part of the team.

The danger of building a team around a star lies in the fact that if the star is put out of the game, the team is left high and dry and it is almost impossible to get any cohesion in the attack or defense, particularly in the former. Princeton had a taste of that trouble when Lourie was injured last season, meeting with a couple of reverses that otherwise might have been avoided.

The WORLD OVER

By FRANKLIN B. MORSE
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

The University of California-Stanford university "big game" which annually is played between these two representative California teams is in the unfortunate position that makes, not for the query as to which team will win, but how large a score will the University of California run up. There have been all sorts of guesses made, but the consensus of opinion that California is three or more scores better than Stanford seems to prevail.

Will there be a football officials' union? Down in Southern California the umpires, referees and linesmen who are selected to officiate at the various contests have come to the conclusion that they are not being paid enough for their services. The regular scale for a referee is $10 to $20, in accordance with the importance of the game, while the head linesman gets from $6 to $10. In the northern section of the state the pay is a little more liberal and there has been no talk of a "walkout."

Several games of football have been arranged to be played this season and then at the last moment have been called off because one or the other of the proposed contestants was alleged not to be governed by certain eligibility rules. It would seem that all of those things could be fully determined on and settled before the match was cinched and it would appear that there is a lot of slipshod lack of method employed in making those matches. The latest instance of this sort is the calling off of the game between the University of Washington and the University of Tennessee. Washington declared that Tennessee was playing its freshmen.

Battling Siki, the Senegalese heavyweight boxer, has been disciplined for conduct unbecoming a gentleman and a pugilist. Discipline must be maintained and no boxer ought to be allowed to roam at large swatting persons indiscriminately, but from pictures we have seen of Siki, we are of the opinion that his mental capacity is limited. There are many boxers afflicted in the same way.

It is an acknowledged fact that prior to the great war, Germany was not noted for its athletes from the standpoint of the American or British athlete. Instead of competition in the open the German was prone to do his physical training in the gymnasium to the stroke of a baton and in unison and concert with squadrons of other men. Whether or not there will be a change in this in the future is a question that is interesting many students of athletics. There is no question that the allied troops showed the Germans many of their sports during their occupancy of territory adjacent to the Rhine. It is something that remains to be seen whether they have assimilated any of them.

Players' Bonus for Coast League Goes

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14. — Abolition of the players' bonus through which members of the first seven clubs of the league shared in $20,000, according to the position of their team at the end of the race and the boosting of the league waiver price to $3,000 from $750 with elimination of the withdrawal privilege were the principal results of the annual winter meeting of the Pacific Coast league.

It was decided to open the season April 3 with Vernon at San Francisco; Oakland at Los Angeles; Portland at Sacramento.

Nothing came of a resolution asking Judge Landis to reinstate Bill Kenworthy of Portland. The territoriality dispute in Los Angeles between Vernon and Los Angeles clubs was referred to the league counsel for an opinion.

Purchase 25 Lots for New Subdivision

The residence property located on the site fronting Ivy and Hawthorne, and just off Broadway, has been purchased by J. Maxey Pace of Laredo, Texas, through the Glendale Realty company, according to an announcement made by R. N. Greenlaw, a member of the sales staff.

The property changing hands comprises twenty-five lots, which, it is understood, will be subdivided at an early date by the new owners.

Mr. and Mrs. Pace, who are said now to possess considerable Glendale property, recently arrived from Texas to spend the winter in this city. They are residing at 446 Patterson avenue.

While the terms of the transaction were not made public, it is understood that the purchase price ran high, as the property involved is one of the largest close-in acreages in the city.

INDIA DEPICTED IN PICTURE AT EAGLE ROCK

United Theatre Featuring 'Shattered Idols' on Bill This Week

Impenetrable India, seething with intrigue and unrest, is the locale J. L. Frothingham has selected for his latest picture—"Shattered Idols," which is the attraction at the United theatre in Eagle Rock.

Intensive research was the only way in which such a setting could be realistically reproduced on the screen and months were spent in assembling data for the actual work of production.

The picture, in addition to portraying life in the European sections of India, goes deeply into the hidden rituals of the natives. The secret temple of the Hindus furnishes the motif for the story, and in this the absolute worship of an animate deity—a girl wedded to an idol—is an important element in the development of the plot.

The story was adapted from I. A. R. Wylie's novel, "A Daughter of Brahma." It has been given all the bizarre and spectacular setting described in the book.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

THE PREVENTION OF DIABETES MELLITUS—Part II

Yesterday I gave you some excerpts from a paper written by Dr. Elliott J. Joslin a diabetes expert. The following is also taken from that same paper:

Obesity

The preponderating influence of obesity in the development of diabetes explains various peculiarities in diabetic case histories and furnishes a new point of view from which to regard them.

1. Conjugal Diabetes—The implication is strong that if husband and wife are diabetic they contract the disease from exposure to good food rather than to one another.

2. Frequency of Diabetes in the Jewish Race—One has only to visit the Jewish quarter of a large city to be impressed with the frequency of obesity. Overfeeding begins in childhood and lasts to old age.

3. Heredity—This may simply mean unusual exposure to an obetic environment. The handicap of a diabetic heredity may be to a considerable extent counteracted by avoidance of overweight.

4. Mental Workers in Contradistinction to Physical Workers—The former are more likely to be fat. But the probability of more frequent urinary examinations among the more intelligent and city dwellers might explain the apparent increase in frequency.

5. A Sequel to Infectious Diseases—Convalescents have big appetites, and unfortunately are almost fanatically overfed during a period of forced inactivity and at the very time when the pancreas must necessarily, like the rest of the body, be in a vulnerable state

Diabetic Children

Until more data concerning diabetic children are acquired, it is necessary to be cautious about conclusions, either pro or con, regarding obesity and diabetes at this age. It is possible that even here obesity is more of a predisposing agency than would appear.

Prevention

Real headway against the ravages of a disease begins with its prevention rather than with its treatment. The individual overweight is at least twice, and at some ages forty times, as liable to the disease.

The diffusion of knowledge about the disadvantages of overweight should be popularized. (Page the F. F. F.! We are doing it, Doctor!—L. H. P.)

The physician should take pride in the prevention of diabetes in his practice. Obese patients should be frankly told that they are candidates for diabetes.

Food Values (Calories)

It is a question of life or death for diabetic patients to know food values, and none better than they realize the harm of excess of weight. The diabetic, therefore, is a good teacher, and diabetic patients outnumber the physicians more than 5 to 1. Our teachers, however, must be guided, and cautions must be issued against rapid or extreme loss of weight.

A Plea for Early Diagnosis

It is well known that diabetic patients come too late for treatment. If the disease is detected early it is far more susceptible to diet.

Urinary Examination

One of the reasons for this delay in diagnosis in the neglect of frequent or routine urinary examinations. Therefore, it is necessary to establish the custom of urinary examinations being made more frequently and more universally.

I am sure you realize now more than ever the importance of attaining and maintaining normal weight.

While I was in Boston recently, I gave my lecture, "Watch Your Weight!" I made the statement that it would not be very long before it would be a disgrace to be fat. I said that it was not a disgrace now, but that when we had a knowledge of dietetics it would be.

One newspaper reported: "Dr. Peters makes a startling statement! It will be a disgrace to be fat when we have a knowledge of diabetics!"

You can see, after reading Dr. Joslin's valuable paper, that the reporter was not altogether wrong.

Book Reviews

"The Unconscious Courtship," by Berta Ruck, takes an old plot and transposes it neatly and cleverly into a feminist key. Instead of the eternal situation of the brusque business man who coldbloodedly shops for a wife to keep off designing females, Miss Ruck has taken the opposite situation; that of a clever business woman who happens to be pretty enough to be annoyed constantly by the attentions of a rather snappy group of men.

The heroine, therefore, appraises an aerial engineer who comes into her ken and makes him a good business offer. If he will engage himself to her and marry her, thereby for once and all shutting off the unwelcome attentions which are interfering with her business plans, Clover, the heroine, will supply the money necessary for launching the engineer's pet scheme of an air mast.

The situation that follows upon this scheme is interesting and more than a bit laughable. Any number of unforeseen complications arise, and in the end—well, anyone that can't figure out the end must have been born the day before yesterday.

Miss Ruck has a finely pointed wit and with it she presents a readily recognizable picture of any family that happens to possess one member who is what is called "well fixed." "The girls" casually borrow everything of Clover's from her fur coat to the use of her bathroom.

"The Unconscious Courtship" should prove a popular week-end volume.

WOMEN'S PARTY ASKS FOR EQUALITY OF SEXES; URGES ONE STANDARD LEGISLATION

WASHINGTON—The national woman's party in conference here adopted a proposal of Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, their president, to ask for an equal rights amendment in congress and in forty-two states.

The party also went on record as being opposed to any welfare legislation favoring women as a class and will insist that they be treated as men in every walk of life. Plans were adopted to put the equal rights bill before the extra session of congress within the next two weeks and immediately launch the campaign in the various states.

The form of equal rights amendment to the Constitution will read:

"No distinction between the rights of the sexes shall exist within the United States, or any place subject to its jurisdiction."

Legislation approved by the committee includes:

The Minnesota jury service law giving women equal rights with men to serve on juries.

The Mississippi guardianship law, making mothers and fathers equal guardians of their children.

The North Dakota law abolishing illegitimacy and making every child the legitimate child of its natural parents.

The Ohio law giving husband and wife mutual obligations for the support of the family and children.

The Oregon divorce law granting divorce on six grounds and one additional ground suggested by the woman's party, namely violation of the terms of the marriage contract, or of any contract between husband and wife.

The North Dakota and Iowa laws requiring that either husband or wife may be required to pay alimony.

The Oregon law limiting the hours of work and applying equally to men and women.

CRANBERRIES

We do not need to wait for turkey in order to have cranberry sauce or cranberry jelly or to make a cranberry pudding. We welcome the cranberry with each succeeding year, and, while it does require a great deal of sugar to make it sweet enough for a dessert, its tartness is a pleasing accompaniment to poultry and meat.

There is a difference of opinion as to whether cranberry sauce or cranberry jelly is better. Which do you like? The jelly is our favorite. The jelly will, of course, taste much better if you have a mould with a pattern in the bottom. Perhaps you are fortunate enough to have inherited a yellow earthenware mould with a bunch of grapes or an ear of corn indented in it. A large quantity of cranberry jelly can be made at once, put into glasses, sealed, and placed in the cupboard for future use.

Cranberry Sauce

The cranberry sauce is made by cooking three cups of berries with one cup of water in a covered saucepan until berries are soft, about fifteen minutes; then one and one-fourth cups sugar and cook until it is dissolved.

Cranberry Pudding

Cranberry pudding is prepared by putting three cups of cranberry sauce in a buttered pudding dish. Prepare a rich baking powder biscuit crust by sifting together one and one-half cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt and one tablespoon sugar together. Cut in three tablespoons fat and add milk to make a soft dough. Place crust on sauce in baking dish and bake in a moderate oven until crust is light brown or about twenty minutes. Serve with a sauce made by cooking two cups of cranberries with four tablespoons water and straining them. Cream three tablespoons butter with two-thirds cup powdered sugar, then add the cranberry pulp. When finished the sauce should be of the consistency of whipped cream.

Cranberry Pie

Make a pie shell; cool and fill with cranberry mixture. Mix two tablespoons cornstarch, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one cup sugar, add one cup boiling water; place over low fire, stir until boiling point is reached, add one-fourth cup sugar, one tablespoon butter and two cups chopped crabnerries and one-third cup chopped raisins. Mix well and let simmer fifteen minutes. When cool, turn into pie shell, place a meringue on top and return to oven until it is a delicate brown.

Mock Cherry Pie

Mix one cup of cranberries cut in halves, one cup of raisins, seeded and chopped, three-fourths cup sugar, one tablespoon flour and one tablespoon butter. Line pie pan with rich paste, pour cranberry mixture in pan, wet edges of pastry with cold water; cover with upper crust and press edges together.

Cranberry Tapioca Pudding

Cook two-thirds cup granulated tapioca in three cups boiling water to which has been added one-half teaspoon salt. Cook one and one-half cups cranberries with one-third cup water until soft; add three-fourths cup sugar. Combine with the tapioca and cook five minutes. Serve either hot or cold.

Cranberry Whip

Beat the whites of two eggs until stiff. Add one-half cup cranberry jelly and continue beating until mixture will hold its shape. Serve very cold.

Side Talks

HOUSEHOLD GODS DETHRONED

Wouldn't it be interesting if one could have a mirror in which one could see one's character just as one ees one's face in a mirror now?

While we are about it let's have it a full length mirror in which one can see both the feet and the head of one's character all at once.

I wonder if even then we should see what we really are like?

Anymore than we know what we really look like by looking in a mirror. Should we not put on some unnatural pose of character when we looked into the character mirror just as we usually have an unnatural expression when we scrutinize ourselves in the glass?

I think the best idea we ever get of how we really look is when we catch a glimpse of ourselves in some unexpectedly placed mirror and look at ourselves for an instant before we know it is ourselves. Then for a brief second or two we do not need to say: "Ah, would some power the gift tae gie us." For we have it.

We Catch a Glimpse

It seems to me that the nearest approach to such an unconscious glimpse of how our characters look that we ever get is in the little things people say about us when they are moved to speak the truth.

And by that I don't necessarily mean disagreeable things (though when a friend tells us he is going to be frank we generally have reason to brace ourselves). I mean the little remarks that people let drop now and then that seem to reveal us to ourselves.

I cannot think of any way of illustrating that except by being personal. I have several such remarks stored up in my mind that come back to me every now and then and throw a sort of flashlight on me for my own edification. A woman said to me once: "You are always thinking, not of what you are doing, but of what you are going to do next." I have thought of that a thousand times when I catch myself doing some job absent-mindedly and carelessly because I am thinking of what I am going to do next.

Not Enough Smiles

Another woman said, "You don't smile very often." That was a startler to me. I did not believe it at first, said at once that the mirror was crooked and distorted me. And then I came to realize that while I smiled at things, inside, I had kind of got out of the habit of smiling as much as I used to. And since then I have tried to let the smiles come through.

Lots of things people say aren't worth anything because they represent either flattery or the opposite. The only way to tell their value is to test them out. Put them away in your mind and then see if you find them coming back to you and casting a searchlight upon your character and the reactions of other people to you.

Just to Him

Of course, even if you could know just how your character looked to any given person, you wouldn't know how it really looked, because he couldn't altogether know you, and anyhow his feelings would enter into it.

Who was it said? "Reputation is what men think of us. Character is what God and the angels know of us."

I like that. I wonder if when we pass on, the angels will tell us what they know. And shall we believe it? And shall we get a chance to make a new character if we don't like the old one? I wonder.

ANSWERED LETTERS

Reader—Gray eyes, olive skin, dark hair and lashes sound like a delightful combination. With such coloring you can wear almost any shade. Browns and grays will probably be most becoming since they will bring out the eyes and hair. Your colors should be mostly those of a brunette—yellows, reds, gold, brown and such shades.

Chum—Try massaging with ice to reduce the bust. If you will send me a s. a. e. repeating your question I will mail the table of weights.

A. M. O.—Use tar or castile soap for shampooing. If the hair is coming out you need a tonic. I will send you mine if you will forward me a s. a. e.

I. B.—Try a cleansing cream for your complexion, ice rubs and a daily vigorous rubbing with a soft brush, hot water and castile soap. Your hair is probably in need of a good tonic.

K. E. F.—I believe a daily general treatment to stimulate the skin will rid you of those brown marks. Scrub the face with a complexion brush, a mild soap and hot water, rinse in hot water, massage in a little cream, and end with an ice rub. This will leave the skin soft and exhilarated. In time, I am sure the spots will disappear as any treatment which stimulates and brings fresh blood into the face, rejuvenates the complexion.

Daily Reader.—If you will send me a s. a. e. I will forward the complexion creams and pilocarpine tonic.

Constant Reader.—The starch treatment is intended to cleanse the pores, but like all powder it will absorb the secretions, so always use enough cream later until the skin has recovered from this drying process.

Betty.—Either quince seed or gum tragacanth will make a good curling fluid. In either case dissolve by using hot water and let it stand overnight, longer if need be. The result will be a heavy, sticky mixture which should be diluted until it forms a thin mucilage. Dampen the hair with this and form into curls, which should be held in place while the hair dries. Comb and shake out the dried particles, which will in no way affect the curling.

Distracted Mother.—Soak the hair in kerosene and tie up the head overnight. This will kill the active vermin. Next day shampoo thoroughly; then begin to comb the hair with a fine toothed comb that is kept wet by constant dipping in vinegar. This will remove the shells from the hair shafts. Sometimes it is necessary to lace such a comb by weaving through the teeth strong silk thread, since some of these shells are so small they will slip through the teeth.

Tomorrow — Exercising the Chin.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

"REO" SPEED WAGON

More than 100,000 Now in Use

Capacity, 500 to 2500 pounds

What One Factor Contributes Most Towards Speed Wagon Suitability?

ECONOMY, says the merchant. "With the Speed Wagon I can deliver 25 pounds—or 2500—quicker and cheaper than by any other method."

VERSATILITY, asserts the manufacturer. "For ten-block deliveries or hundred-mile hauls I find the Speed Wagon equally adaptable."

RUGGEDNESS, answers the farmer. "A lighter vehicle couldn't last long on my roads; a heavier truck wouldn't get through."

SPEED, exclaims the interurban bus operator. "For patrons demand a fast running time, especially when I compete or cooperate with railroads."

DEPENDABILITY, vouches the city bus owner. "For Speed Wagon operation enables me to run on strict schedules; delays would kill my profit."

SAFETY, emphasizes the school-wagon driver. "The low-hung power units and sensible distribution of weight over the wheels make it hold the road."

EASY RIDING QUALITIES, remarks the ambulance owner. "Its long springs and pneumatic cord tires give the Speed Wagon passenger-car riding smoothness."

STANDARDIZATION, says the fleet-owner. "Interchangeability of Speed Wagon parts is truly remarkable."

Barbara Harding turned questioning eyes toward him. In them was the cold, haughty aloofness again that had marked her cognizance of him upon the Halfmoon—the look that had made his hate of her burn most fiercely. It took the mucker's breath away to witness it, and it made the speech he had contemplated more difficult than ever—nay, almost impossible. He coughed nervously, and the old dark, lowering scowl returned to his brow.

"Did you speak?" asked Miss Harding, icily.

Billy Byrne cleared his throat, and then there blurted from his lips not the speech that he had intended, but a sudden, hateful rush of words which seemed to emanate from another personality, from one whom Billy Byrne once had been.

"Ain't dat boob croaked yet?" he growled.

The shock of that brutal question brought Barbara Harding to her feet. In horror she looked down at the man who had spoken thus of a brave and noble comrade in the face of death itself. Her eyes blazed angrily as hot, bitter words rushed to her lips, and then of a sudden she thought of Byrne's self-sacrificing heroism in returning to Theriere's side in the face of advancing samurai—of the cool courage he had displayed as he carried the unconscious man back to the jungle—of the devotion, almost superhuman, that had sustained him as he struggled, uncomplaining, up the steep mountain path with the burden of the Frenchman's body the while his own lifeblood left a crimson trail behind him.

Such deeds and these words were incompatible in the same individual. There could be but one explanation—Bryne must be two men, with as totally different characters as though they had possessed separate bodies. And who may say that her hypothesis was not correct—at least it seemed that Billy Byrne was undergoing a metamorphosis, and at the instant there was still a question as to which personality should eventually dominate.

Bryne turned away from the reproach which replaced the horror in the girl's eyes, and with a tired sigh let his head fall upon his outstretched arm. The girl watched him for a moment, a puzzled expression upon her face, and then returned to work above Theriere.

The Frenchman's respiration was scarcely appreciable, yet after a time he opened his eyes and looked up wearily. At sight of the girl he smiled wanly, and tried to speak, but a fit of coughing flecked his lips with bloody foam, and again he closed his eyes. Fainter and faster came his breathing, until it was with difficulty that the girl detected any movement of his breast whatever. She thought that he was dying, and she was afraid. Wistfully she looked toward the mucker. The man still lay with his head buried in his arm, but whether he were wrapped in thought, in slumber, or in death the girl could not tell. At the final thought she went white with terror.

Slowly she approached the man, and leaning over placed her hand upon his shoulder.

"Mr. Byrne!" she whispered.

The mucker turned his face toward her. It looked tired and haggard.

"Wot is it?" he asked, and his tone was softer than she had ever heard it.

"I think Mr. Theriere is dying," she said, "and I—I—Oh, I am so afraid."

The man flushed to the roots of his hair. All that he could think of were the ugly words he had spoken a short time before—and now Theriere was dying! Byrne would have laughed had anyone suggested that he entertained any other sentiment than hatred toward the second officer of the Halfmoon—that is, he would have twenty-four hours before; but now, quite unexpectedly, he realized that he didn't want Theriere to die, and then it dawned upon him that a new sentiment had been born within him—a sentiment to which he had been a stranger all his hard life—friendship.

He felt friendship for Theriere! It was unthinkable, and yet the mucker knew that it was so. Painfully he crawled over to the Frenchman's side.

"Theriere!" he whispered in man's ear.

The officer turned his head wearily.

"Do youse know me, old pal?" asked the mucker, and Barbara Harding knew from the man's voice that there were tears in his eyes; but what she did not know was that they welled there in response to the words the mucker had just spoken—the nearest approach to words of endearment that had ever passed his lips.

Theriere reached up and took Bryne's hand. It was evident that he, too, had noted the unusual quality of the mucker's voice.

"Yes, old man," he said, very faintly, and then, "water, please."

Meet the Heaviest Man in the Army—324 Pounds—Happy As Any Man in the Ranks

—Copyright, Underwood & Underwood

After twenty-five years in the army shuffle Sergeant William E. Rapar, left, has become the biggest card in the deck. He is encouraging his little buddy who is, incidentally, five feet tall and weighs 120 pounds and is one of the smallest men in the company. Rapar weighs 324 pounds before eating. He arrived in California last week from Fort Leavenworth where he enlisted for service in San Francisco. Sergeant Rapar has seen active service in the Spanish-American war, Philippine insurrection, and the world war.

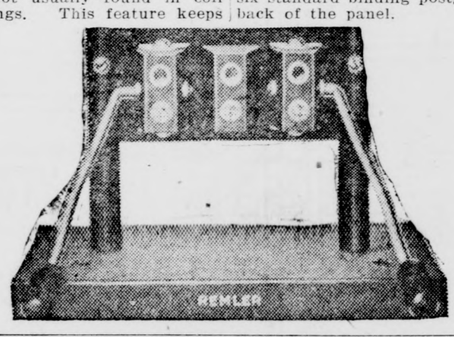
HONEYCOMB THREE COIL MOUNTING

The illustration shows an excellent mounting for honeycomb or duo lateral inductance coils. The control handles is the special feature of this type, permitting a very delicate system of adjustment not usually found in coil mountings. This feature keeps the operator's hand away from the coils and prevents any body capacity effect. It is finished in polished bakelite and makes a handsome appearance. The coil terminals are connected direct to six standard binding posts on the back of the panel.



RADIO EXPLAINED
By LIEUT. JOHN R. IRWIN
INSTRUCTOR U. S. AIR SERVICE

USE OF D. C. AND A. C. MOTORS

It has already been pointed out that an electric motor is almost identical with a generator in structure, but its function is reversed; it converts electrical power into mechanical power. It is important to have the motor suited to the kind of circuit on which it is to be used: a. c. or d. c., the right voltage, etc. Common voltages are 110 to 120; 220 to 240; 500 to 550; also for a. c. 440. Lower voltages may be used on battery circuits. A. c. motors, like generators, may be single phase, two phase, three phase, etc.; however, in radio single phase is the rule, especially with small units. D. c. motors may have series, shunt, or compound excitation.

D. C. Shunt Motor—If a shunt generator is used for charging a storage battery and the engine is cut off, the generator will continue to run provided the battery is large enough, but an ammeter in the circuit shows that the current has reversed. The battery is discharging and the generator is running as a motor. The motor is explained by the fact that when a current is sent through a conductor in a magnetic field there is a force that tends to push the conductor across the field. The left hand rule, already explained, gives the directions.

Consider the simple loop in Fig. 1, between the poles NS of an electro-magnet. If the wires plus and — are connected to a source of direct current the iron will be magnetized. At the same time current flowing in the direction of the arrows in the loop causes a force toward the front in the conductor near the N pole and a force toward the back in the conductor near the S pole. The loop turns. The effect of the commutator is to make the proper connection to the conductors as they come into place.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories
— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGILY'S PUMPKIN SEEDS.

"Uncle Wiggily!" called Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy one day, as she was rattling away amid the pots and pans of her kitchen in the hollow stump bungalow. "Oh, Uncle Wiggily, are you going to do anything special right away?"

"No, nothing special," answered the bunny gentleman, giving his pink nose an extra twinkle. "May I have the pleasure of doing something for you?" he asked politely.

"Well," replied Nurse Jane, "it is getting near to Thanksgiving time, Uncle Wiggily, "and you know how you like pumpkin pies."

'Indeed I do like them," laughed the bunny. "Do you mean to tell me I am not going to have any pumpkin pie for Thanksgiving?"

"Oh, I'll make the pie if you get the pumpkin," offered Nurse Jane.

"I thought I got you one about two weeks ago," said the bunny uncle. "The time I made a funny face of it, turned it into a Jack o' lantern and frightened away some bad animal. Where's that pumpkin?"

"Oh, I made that into pies," said Nurse Jane, "but so many hungry animal boys came begging me for pieces of the pie, after they had played football games, that there isn't enough of that pie left to feed a gold fish. I hope you aren't hungry."

"No, indeed!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "I'll go get you another pumpkin and you can make more pies."

Uncle Wiggily hopped over the fields until he came to one owned by a kind farmer who often gave the animal folk things to eat. The bunny gentleman knew it would do no harm to take one of the farmer's pumpkins. Picking out one as large as he could carry, Uncle Wiggily started back with it to his hollow stump bungalow. On the way Uncle Wiggily hummed this song:

"Peter, Peter, pumpkin-eater,
Had a wife but could not keep her.
He put her in a pumpkin shell,
And there he kept her very well."

"I suppose," said Uncle Wiggily to himself, "Peter couldn't keep his wife anywhere but in a pumpkin shell because there was no coal to keep his regular house warm. Well, a pumpkin shell house isn't so bad, but I like my hollow stump bungalow better. And what good times I'll have when Thanksgiving comes and Nurse Jane bakes pumpkin pies."

The bunny was soon back at his bungalow again with the pumpkin.

"If you don't mind," said Nurse Jane, "you may open the pumpkin, take out the seeds, and cut the pumpkin up in slices for me. I am going over to see Mrs. Wibblewobble, the duck lady, for a little while, and if you have the pumpkin sliced by the time I get back, I'll make you a pie now—even if it isn't Thanksgiving."

"Oh, fine!" cried Uncle Wiggily, "What shall I do with the pumpkin seeds?" he asked, as he cut open the yellow vegetable and saw hundreds and hundreds of large seeds inside.

"Oh, throw the seeds away," Nurse Jane told him as she went over to see Mrs. Wibblewobble. "The pumpkin seeds are of no use."

While Uncle Wiggily was taking out the seeds, along came Grandpa Goosey Gander. He sat down on a bench outside the hollow stump bungalow to watch his rabbit friend carve the pumpkin. Then along came Jackie Bow Wow, the puppy dog boy.

"Uncle Wiggily!" barked Jackie, "Have you any chestnuts? I'd love to roast some chestnuts!"

"No, Jackie, I haven't a one," said Uncle Wiggily. "I'm sorry."

"Roasted pumpkin seeds are nearly as good as chestnuts," said Grandpa Goosey. "Of course, the seeds are smaller, but give me some, Uncle Wiggily, and I'll roast them for Jackie."

Grandpa Goosey put some pumpkin seeds on top of the hot stove, turning the seeds over when they were browned on one side. And when they were roasted and Jackie ate some he cried:

"Why, they taste almost as good as chestnuts!"

Uncle Wiggily started back with it.

"Bless my pink nose!" laughed Uncle Wiggily, "I didn't know that pumpkin seeds were of any use."

Jackie ran along with some roasted seeds in his pocket, and then came Susie Littletail, the rabbit.

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily!" cried Susie. "Have you got a necklace you could give me? I want a new necklace to wear to Kittie Kat's party."

"No I haven't a necklace," said the bunny gentleman.

"You can make a necklace from pumpkin seeds quacked Grandpa Goosie. "I'll string some for you." So he strung some pumpkin seeds on a strong thread and made Susie as fine and pretty a necklace as heart could wish.

"Pumpkin seeds are more useful than I thought," said Uncle Wiggily, as Susie, wearing her seed necklace, hopped on to the party.

Then along came the Woozie Wolf howling:

"I want ears to nibble!"

"Throw pumpkin seeds at him! Throw pumpkin seeds at the Wolf!" quacked Grandpa Goosey. And he and Uncle Wiggily threw the rest of the pumpkin seeds at the Wolf. The sharp pointed seeds hit the Wolf in the eyes, and away he ran, crying:

"Wow! Zow! Gow! Oh, I guess I don't want to nibble any ears."

"My Pumpkin seeds are wonderful!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. And when the pie was baked Grandpa Goosey had a large slice.

Now, if the hoptoad doesn't try to jump over the moon with the Wooly Cow and stub his toe on one of the stars I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily going fishing.

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR
You Can Bring Back Color and Lustre With Sage Tea and Sulphur

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is mussy and troublesome. At little cost you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger.—Advertisement.

WOMEN GIVE OUT

Housework is hard enough when healthy. Every woman who is having backache, blue and nervous spells, dizzy headaches and kidney or bladder troubles, should be glad to heed this grateful woman's experience.

Mrs. E. J. Levengood, 812 W. 2nd St., Pomona, Cal., gave the following statement April 30, 1913: "I have never had need to use a kidney remedy since I was cured by Doan's Kidney Pills when living in Santa Ana. Before this I was much distressed at times with headaches and cold chills ran up and down my back. The doctor said I had kidney and bladder trouble and also lumbago. Doan's Kidney Pills removed these symptoms which had so annoyed me and I am indeed grateful for the permanent cure."

On October 3, 1919, Mrs. Levengood said: "My kidneys have not troubled me since Doan's Kidney Pills cured me. I am always glad to recommend Doan's."

Diplomatic Victory Is Gained by Turks

LONDON, Nov. 14.—Allied military forces in Western Thrace have turned over Rodosto, important seaport on the Sea of Marmora, to the Turkish nationalists and will turn over Adrianople, Thracian capital city, to the Turks on Sunday, said a dispatch from Constantinople today.

Occupation of these two important cities on European soil by the Turks gives them a diplomatic victory over the allies before the Near East peace conference opens. It also gives Turkey a strong military position in Europe. The allies had declared at the time of the Mudania armistice that they would not allow the Turks to occupy Western Thrace until after the peace conference convened.

Actions of Soviet Defended by Lenine

MOSCOW, Nov. 14.—Nicolai Lenine, in an address to the Russian communist leaders today, declared that Russians must become "a cultured people and then prospects of a red world revolution will be good."

Lenine defended the course of the soviets, saying:

"It is true that we have committed many stupidities, but we have learned from them. Our enemies also made their mistakes. For example, there was the Versailles peace treaty, from which they have been unable to free themselves."

Lenine appeared in good health and spoke vigorously. His speech lasted more than an hour.

Our Concentration Camps

Says "Common Cent":

"Somewhere near you are four walls, sound and strong. Somewhere there is a place that's safe from storm and stress and envious hands. That spot is your bank. And there we 'Common Cents' have our Concentration Camp, where we work and multiply—ready to come to you when you need our aid."

When folks talk of "saving," their minds directly turn to thoughts of "banks." And this is only right, for the bank is a safe, sure place to keep your savings. It keeps an ever-watching guard over your moneys—and pays you interest upon your deposits. Yet, do not think of this bank solely as a depository for your savings. Think of it, too, as a place where you will meet men who can show you the simplest, easiest way to save. If you have a certain something you are striving for—a home, a business of your own—come and tell us. Talk with us frankly; we'll plan together to make your dreams come true.

Remember a tiny sum will open your account. Other tiny sums will keep it growing. The big thing is to start, then to keep at it. Let us explain how easy it is. Start your Concentration Camp of "Common Cents" today.

Harding to Pass on Railroad Legislation

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 14.—President Harding will take a hand in the drafting of new railroad legislation, it was announced today by Senator Cummins, Republican of Iowa. Following a visit to the White House, Cummins, who is chairman of the senate interstate commerce committee, said he would confer with the president later this week on proposals to amend the transportation act.

The president will also be asked to pass upon plans for reorganization of the United States railroad labor board, it was learned.

Plan More Arrests In 'Dry' Campaign

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14.—Further arrests were promised today by Prohibition Director Samuel Rutter in the biggest roundup of higherups in the bootlegging business ever conducted by dry enforcement agents in San Francisco. Already nineteen arrests have been made, including a millionaire distiller, a cantor of a Jewish synagogue, two druggists and two merchants.

In addition to large quantities of wine, alcohol and other liquors seized in connection with the arrests the dry raiding squads confiscated several automobiles and trucks alleged to have been used in the illicit liquor traffic.

According to Rutter, the raids, carefully planned for some time, are designed to cut off the supply of the small bootlegger at the source and to break up one of the most extensive liquor rings on the coast.

Clinton J. Mason, one of the largest distillers in the west, and reputed to be very wealthy, is charged by Rutter with doing an enormous business in the illicit sale of pure grain alcohol.

yond description. I had the very interesting experience of taking a trip on it when the snow was very heavy. I knew there was no bridge across the Tanana river and I wondered how we would get across. When we reached the river we found it frozen over with ice and ties and rails laid across and we crossed over on this natural bridge.

Autos Stay in Garages.

"In the winter time none of the automobiles are taken out of the garages and dog teams are used exclusively, and if you have never ridden behind a dog team you don't know the real thrills of travel. The dogs are beautiful creatures and capable of strenuous work. I remember having seen an engine stalled on a branch track blocked with snow and I stood amazed when they hitched a dog team to the locomotive and pulled it past the barrier.

"We have delightful weather in Anchorage in both summer and winter. In winter the days are very short and the cold clear nights are wonderful and I wish I might describe the real wonder of the aurora borealis, the northern lights.

Women Are Attractive

"As for the Eskimos, they are interesting study. The women are exceptionally beautiful with their dark eyes and hair and creamy skin, and the children are very cunning. But none of them want to depart from the customs of their ancestors. They are content to live in their unsanitary huts and eat fish. Even those who are sent to government schools revert to type and when they come back with modern clothes and education they are more than happy to go back to the family igloo.

"Another fact of interest about them is that the present generation is even lazier than the last one and the weaving and other art work done by the Eskimos is not being continued by the younger ones. Of course this makes any pieces of Eskimo work more valuable but it is rather lamentable that the art is passing."

Chiropractor Thanks The News for Aid

Editor The Evening News: I wish to take this opportunity in behalf of the Chiropractic profession and in my own behalf to express my sincere appreciation to your paper, the many friends of Chiropractic and my own friends for the courteous way both you and they have supported our campaign for a Chiropractic bill.

While we appreciate the confidence shown by the overwhelming majority at the polls last Tuesday, at the same time we realize our greatest fight is still to come.

Owing to a lack of any regulation of schools up to the present time, the responsibilities of the first board of examiners will be difficult, and for that reason we court the patience and indulgence of our friends until such time as proper regulation and control can be established.

Yours very truly,
J. K. GILKERSON, D. C.

Program Is Enjoyed at Emerson School

Dr. E. B. Warman was the principal participant in the program given last night at the Emerson School of Self-Expression studio at 730 South Glendale avenue. A splendid attendance is reported and those taking part in the program were highly complimented on their success.

Another special feature of the program was the dramatic reading by Henry Biederman, who gave the second act from "The Servant in the House." Others taking part in the program were Dorothy Kennedy, Marjorie Biggs, Gurdon Wattles, Nellie Ayleshire and Robert Rhodes.

tective work. He was encouraged in this line of thought further by a passion for finding out the truth.

"When I was a little lad I used to think how I would have solved the mystery of who got father's gold," remarked Mr. McLaren in an interview last year. "Later, when I heard the stories of men in the penitentiary, it was more with the idea of vindicating the innocent than convicting the guilty that I thought I would like to be a detective."

Noted as Detective

Mr. McLaren had all the natural gifts of a clever detective including a dogged persistence which has not been excelled by any detective in fact or fiction. After acting as a member of the W. J. Burns Detective Agency on a number of celebrated cases, he was appointed chief detective of Los Angeles county and filled that position for five years until 1915.

Mr. McLaren was a prominent Elk, a Scottish Rite Mason, and a member of the Los Angeles Athletic club.

Mrs. Alice McLaren survives her husband. They have three children: James McLaren, Robert McLaren and Miss Irene McLaren. The family has lived in Glendale for the past nine years. Before that time they were residents of Hollywood.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed by Kiefer & Tyerick.

Church Bazaar Is Successfully Held

Mrs. S. E. Brown, president of the Ladies' Aid society of the Tropico Presbyterian church, reports that the bazaar given last Friday night was a success in every way. In spite of the unsettled weather, attendance exceeded all expectations, she states, and a large quantity of home-made goods and edibles were sold, for a total net profit of over $140. This sum, Mrs. Brown adds, goes into the Ladies' Aid treasury, where it will be used partly for charitable purposes and partly for improving the interior of the church.

A special feature of the bazaar was a chicken pie served cafeteria style.

"The unanimous opinion of those attending seems to indicate that this supper marked a real milestone in Glendale gastronomic history," says Mrs. Brown.

Another feature of the occasion was some excellent musical talent, contributed by Miss Rice and Miss Moody, vocal, Miss Ruth Goldsborough at the piano and Herbert Bruck, with the violin.

Loses Wager; Must Eat Duck Feathers

Lee L. Payne, Sr., of 1418 North Columbus avenue, was scheduled this morning to partake of a breakfast consisting of ducks' feathers and apple sauce, according to the reports of his eldest son, Lee L., Jr., who returned to Glendale last night from a three-day trip to Elizabeth lake. When the party, which consisted of a number of the junior Payne's high school chums, left Saturday Mr. Payne informed the boys that he would "eat the feathers from all the ducks brought back."

Although a lone mallard constituted all of their game the boys were more glad to return with that than if they had bagged a mountain lion. The boys who made the trip were Lee Payne, Theodore Haig, Cecil Wilson, Neil McIver, Newton McGillis and William St. Clair.

Community Service Players Rehearsing

A. E. McCoubrey was elected president of the first unit of the Glendale Community Service players at the executive board meeting last night. Hugh Blue, president, presided over the meeting, and announced that an art committee is to be formed before the next meeting.

The players are now working on three one-act plays for production. One of the plays is "Society Notes" by Stewart Kidd and is being rehearsed at 114 West Milford street, the home of Miss Dorothy Morton.

The ultimate production of the players will be the Arabian play, "The Hand of the Prophet." It is being rehearsed at 122 West Milford street, the home of the director, Nanno Woods. A holiday sketch, "Christmas Boxes," is also being rehearsed at Mrs. Woods' home.

The members have accepted an invitation from the Eagle Rock Community Players to attend the performance of "The Man From Mexico," to be given Wednesday and Thursday nights of this week at the Eagle Rock Central school.

More members are being sought for the Glendale players and applications will be received by Nanno Woods, the director, Glendale 394, or Miss Dorothy Morton, secretary, Glendale 629-M. According to an announcement there are vacancies in present plays for one male part, and several male and female understudies.

FASHION SHOP IS PROMOTING SALE

Dresses, Coats, Lingerie and Hats Now Offered Public at Reduced Prices

It is no longer necessary to explain the why and wherefore of the Fashion Center in Glendale, for Glendale women have learned in the short time since the little shop opened in the Monarch building that the Fashion Center stands for courteous service, pleasing atmosphere, and, most important of all, exclusive garments at reasonable prices.

Fashion Center shopping is becoming very popular with Glendale maids and matrons and an interesting part of it is that window shopping is as much desired by the Fashion Center proprietors as indoor shopping. They give their reasons for this unusual view by explaining that they enjoy arranging their stock on display in their ideal windows; and because where window shopping is a pleasure it always results in store shopping as an equal pleasure.

At present the Fashion Center is in the midst of an autumn sale and its usual attractive prices are being made a bit more attractive. Over 300 dresses, 150 coats, home dresses, lingerie, sweaters and hats are now on display at reduced prices.

MUSSEL GATHERERS LOSE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Mussels do not move by their own power and the taking of these water denizens from privately owned lands may be trespass, the supreme court of the United states decided in a suit brought by James S. The mussel gatherers lost their appeal through affirmance by the supreme court of the United States of the decision in the lower court.

War Savings Stamps Due on January 1

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—War Savings Stamps of the series of 1918 become due and payable on January 1, 1923. The people who bought these stamps will receive their full face value upon redemption and will find that the money they saved five years ago has earned every year about four per cent compounded interest. In order to afford holders of war savings stamps an opportunity to continue their investment in a safe government security the Treasury Department is offering an exchange of War Savings Stamps for Treasury Savings Certificates. The certificates are issued in denominations of $25, $100 and $1,000, maturity value, and sold for $20.50, $82, respectively. Holders of War Savings Stamps can get them at these prices upon application through their own banks or their post offices. Exchanges will be made as of January 1, 1923, upon applications presented between November 15, 1922, and January 15, 1923. Immediate payment will be made in cash of any difference due the holder of War Savings Stamps if he takes the largest possible amount of Treasury Savings Certificates on the exchange.

The growing inclination of the people to save and their desire to find a safe reinvestment for their money leads Treasury officials to believe that a large part of the six nundred million dollars in War Savings Stamps soon to become due will be exchanged for Treasury Savings Certificates.

"I hope you will pardon this visit. The Affable Picaroon." The police say they found a large number of the cards in his possession when he was arrested. They also found a full set of burglar's tools, they claim, and a large amount of loot.

REVIVAL MEETING DRAWS BIG CROWD

Sermons and Programs to Be Held Each Night This Week at the Christian Church

The first week night service of the revival meetings being conducted at the Central Christian church was well attended. Features on the part of the Conner Trio in the program included "Did You Think to Pray?" (Perkins) and a dramatic reading by Mrs. Helen Conner Nern, "My Daddy," which was an impressive tribute to mother. The committee plans on having a surprise feature on the program each night.

Rev. C. A. Cole's subject last night was "Who Is This Christ?" Tonight he will speak on "Why I Am a Christian." In his address last night Rev. Cole said:

"Christ's credentials are not the morality of his teachings, nor the purity of the life of the Master, but the effect that his acceptance by men has upon their lives. What Christianity does is the best evidence of what it is. If the blind see, the lame walk, the lepers be cleansed, and the poor have the gospel preached unto them, then our religion has the marks of divinity in it."

'BUNGALOW SAFE' MAKES ITS DEBUT

Appeared Yesterday at the Office of the Glendale Credit Association

The "Bungalow" safe has made its debut in Glendale. It was established yesterday in the offices of the Glendale Credit Association in the Chamber of Commerce building.

Frank H. Pilling, secretary of the association, is the one who gave the safe its surname.

He says he thought the name appropriate because the safe, which was built especially for the credit association, resembles a miniature bungalow in size and appointments.

"It has countless little drawers and rooms," Mr. Pilling pointed out, "and its floor is plenty large enough to accommodate two persons and a breakfast table."

Figuratively speaking, the safe is approximately six feet in height. It's so large in width and depth that all one can behold on entering the credit association's office is safe.

As Mr. Pilling remarked: "It's awfully safe in his office."

So are some 8500 names, valued at $1 each, which are reposing there.

Mr. Pilling stated that the association decided to purchase a safe that would be plenty large enough to care for its future business.

"We have more than fifty names a day coming into our office for credit rating files," he asserted, and at this rate we figure our 'bungalow' safe will prove serviceable for seven or eight years; or at least until Glendale reaches the 50,000 mark.

"And after that—well, we'll gladly buy another one."

was made that a general mass meeting be held by the body at a place and on a date to be announced later. This resolution was adopted, as was a qualifying one stating that the exact date of the mass meeting will be duly advertised in the columns of the newspapers.

Sam Davis' Views

Sam A. Davis, Glendale councilman, was present at the meeting. He stated that he wasn't a spy and that he didn't want anyone to think him such.

"I'm here," he said, "as a private citizen and, because while I'm neither pro nor con insofar as annexation is concerned, I deem that the issue being projected invites the very closest observation of every taxpayer of Glendale.

Mr. Davis was called upon later on to accept one of the temporary offices. He rejected the proffer, however, before the move could be seconded.

Mr. Usilton stated after the meeting that the body formed yesterday will ultimately be named the Consolidation association.

Watson and Myers Bout Ends In Draw

Johnny Myers, Glendale's fighting fireman, did not, as published, take the decision from "Chic" Watson, also of this city, at the American Legion boxing show staged last Saturday night. Instead, the battle was a draw and the fighters provided a real exhibition that kept the fans on the edge of their chairs.

Southern Glendale's new store will carry a complete line of men's and women's furnishings, dry goods and shoes for all members of the family.

Two entrees will be registered in the dog show of the Hollywood Kennel club Friday by Allan N. Fairchild of 1035 Boynton street, manager of the Glendale office at 1725 South Brand boulevard of the Jenny-Marquis-Ford Realty company. They will be Meg, who has never been beaten, and Wee McGregor, a young dog, but very ambitious. So far he has never been beaten either. Both are Scotch terriers. Unfortunately "Young Mack" got his tail rocked on recently—which rather put a crimp in it. For this reason he may not make such a fine showing as usual.

C. H. Ambrosch, proprietor of the Glendale Monument Works at 1727 South Brand boulevard, motored to Long Beach Sunday. He was accompanied by his family.

Twenty-six ducks, according to report, had the privilege of being shot over the week-end by representatives of the Bentley-Schoeneman Lumber company, 460 West Los Feliz road, who went to the Bentley cabin at Big Bear. This company's plant at 462 West Los Feliz road is now bottling a carload of Green Hill Ginger Ale to send to Portland, Oregon. This will contain 765 cases of two dozen bottles each.

Otto Clinton is being kept busy operating the labeling machine which puts the stickers on the bottles at the rate of thirty-six a minute.

Each of the 18,360 bottles in this shipment will advise some person in Portland that Glendale is the home of good ginger ale.

Boston Subdivision Property In Demand

The E. R. Ripley company, of 200 West Broadway, which is buying the Boston subdivision on North Pacific avenue and Eighth street, announced yesterday that all indications pointed to the six unsold lots in the tract being contracted for before the subdivision has passed through escrow.

E. R. Ripley, head of the firm, stated that the laying of private water pipes was begun on Eighth street yesterday. When this is complete he said that all of the tract improvements will have been accomplished except for paving, which will be attended to later.

Originally, the Boston subdivision comprised thirty lots. The six remaining ones cannot be sold outright until the sale of the property goes through escrow.

Mr. Ripley stated that he expected the latter formality will be completed during the course of the next few weeks.

THEATRES

The Glendale

Charles Ray is entertaining film fans at the Glendale theatre with his "A Tailor Made Man," a screen version of the recent Cohan & Harris stage hit by Harry James Smith.

It is Charles Ray's first nine reel United Artists" production, and Director Joseph De Grasse has made special effort to make it a production of great success.

"It is Charles Ray from the first to last reel," says Manager Howe, and that means two hours of clever entertainment. Don't miss this program, is my suggestion."

None so arrogant as the beggar suddenly rich.

The T. D. & L.

"Clarence," the riot provoking comedy fits Wally Reid like a glove, according to those who have seen the William De Mille production at the T. D. & L. theatre. Agnes Ayres is the girl in the story. And when one hears the announcement, "Wally Reid, 'Clarence' and Agnes Ayres," one couldn't ask for much more for entertainment.

In addition there is a special comedy, burlesquing the famous old tale "Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves." Completing the program is the latest weekly news events. "Come and bring the whole family," is Manager Allan's invitation.
